Please see our Facebook page for all the latest updates from Wakatipu High School, and take a look at our sports page for news on football, rugby, snow sports and more. Recent posts include pictures from this week's Greenstone Camp and a video from the recent visit by the NZ Army Band.

Principal's Message

Kia ora and welcome again to the Wakatipu High School newsletter. A busy week at WHS this week - particularly including the Year 9 Greenstone Camps. The first two and last one will have had great weather but Camp 3, who returned today, certainly got a bit wet. It does sounds like the camps have gone well thus far.

Yesterday we had the NZ Army band play in Te Kirikiri during Break 2. They were absolutely awesome and there was a great crowd of students to watch and enjoy them. For both Greenstone and the Army Band see our Facebook page for posts.

Strike for Climate - is an international movement for students 'striking' and marching re climate change, next Friday the 15 March. As you be aware from media this is an interesting matter for schools to deal with. While we support our students to be active citizens and raise awareness about the issue of climate change we have to balance that with our responsibilities as a school.
We are supporting a group of students who are actively involved in work on the environment and sustainability and who are part of our school's environmental group to attend the march, and we believe they will represent our students well. For other students who choose to attend the march, which is at 2.45pm, our normal attendance procedures will apply - i.e. if parents explain their absence they will be marked 'explained and unjustified', but students who are absent without their parents explanation will be marked as truant.
Please also note that the march is not a school event and there will be no school supervision there, and for clarity: school and all classes will be running as normal next Friday.

Vaping - if you are not even sure what vaping is please click on this link for an article which includes concerns about it. While there is some debate about the health risks associated with vaping, particularly flavoured ones, we are very clear that vaping is not permitted at school, which includes buses, and we treat it the same as smoking at school. If you are not aware of vaping we encourage you to become informed, and to have a conversation with your child about it.

Wakatipu High School Foundation - are incredible supporters of WHS in so many ways, and next week they have an important opportunity to raise funds - and they need our help to do so! Please see below for details.

Reminders

Parking - parents, please ensure you see below regarding parking at school.
Uniform - as flagged last week, blazers and ties are now compulsory uniform items for all students every day.

I recently received a lovely email re our students being great citizens:

"Just a quick note to say I noticed a couple of (year 12 or below as they had yellow ties) girls picking up rubbish outside the Helicopter buildings on Lucas place. It'd obviously blown out of someone's rather full wheely bin, and instead of ignoring it they were picking it up and making sure they closed the lid."

As the person noted these actions are rarely remarked upon, and there are many great things that our students do so it is nice to highlight them here.

We are now into the second half of the term and it is worth noting that the second half does contain plenty of events and action - most notably including Tournament Week in Week 9 and the Musical in Week 10, so students need to ensure they are making the most of their classes and learning. Regarding the Musical, I have been checking out practises on the weekend and there are some great songs - it's going to be awesome!

Another good weekend ahead, although not quite as exceptional as last weekend. All the best for folks competing in the Mototapu :)

The Importance of Reading

Dear parents, whanau, and community,

In an increasingly technological age, our young people are less likely to read high quality, published content. Literacies are a cornerstone of the Wakatipu High School Akonga Profile and we know that reading increases literacy. What many people do not realise, is that reading can also support children's holistic development and wellbeing. OECD research shows that reading for pleasure is the single most important indicator of a child's future success.

The National Library states that continuing the habit of reading, widely, into teenage years helps teens to:

- develop their vocabulary
- improve their writing
- deal with the increasing demands of school work
- gain confidence when speaking
- deal with their increasingly complex world, and understand some of the adult issues they will have to grapple with
- know they are not alone – that others may be thinking and feeling the way they do
- open lines of communication, particularly if parents, teachers, librarians provide opportunities to discuss what teens are reading
- share and see how others have found solutions to problems

Studies also have found that reading increases empathy and has health benefits including reducing stress: Mindlab International's research found that tension eased and heart rates slowed down in subjects who read silently for as little as six minutes.

OECD research also shows that reading for pleasure at school is strongly influenced by relationships between teachers and children, and children and families. Parents are influential in developing early reading for enjoyment, and if books are valued from a young age, this is likely to continue. We need to take a collective approach both at school and as a community.

In English courses, all junior students silent read as a part of their lessons. Year 9 students participate in the Stop, Drop and Read! competition in Term 3 and Year 10 students complete a Graffiti Journal and participate in the Hell's Pizza Reading Challenge. All students should be reading at home as a part of their homework.

Four key things you can do to support your teen with reading:

- Role model reading! Adolescents read more when they see adults such as parents and teachers reading. It's particularly powerful for boys to see adult males engaged in reading.
- Find the "why" in YA. YA (young adult) novels tackle the edgy issues teens struggle with, from peer pressure and romantic longing to grief and trouble at home or school. Whether they're personally grappling with these issues or seeking vicarious thrills, teens gravitate toward subject matter that's relatable. Check the YA bestseller lists and chat to the librarian for ideas.
- Merge movies with books. Hollywood is turning to teen lit for ideas more than ever. Offer your teen the print version to read before or after a big film adaptation comes out, and talk about the similarities and differences between the two.
- Audiobooks. Download free audiobooks and encourage teens to read along as they listen. For free audiobooks, see Radio NZ collections/readings, Librivox, Podiobooks and Openculture

Find more inspiration, and strategies to encourage teens to read for pleasure on the National Library website.

If you have any concerns about your child's literacy learning, contact the English teacher or Student Learning Support (Katie Tompkins), as the school has a number of out-of-class initiatives and support we can offer.

Thank you for your support!

Parking at WHS

We have engaged Parking Enforcement Services to assist us managing our car parking, as we have insufficient parks to cater for staff and student parking needs. The desire for car parks has resulted in some illegal parking, and unsafe behaviours. In addition, the residents at nearby apartments find our car park quite desirable, and the Playcentre sometimes has their allocated spaces used by students parking in their area. Unfortunately, it is a real problem for us and not one we are resourced to manage, hence (after taking advice) engaging the appropriate people to manage the situation for us.

The car parks which have parking enforcement applicable are all clearly marked as being staff and or staff/student and signage advising of parking enforcement. Any vehicle which has not been registered and issued with a parking sticker that parks in the staff/student parks will be issued with a parking infringement (as per the signage).

We have 25 clearly marked Visitor parks at the front of the building designated for Visitors, Deliveries, Student drop-off etc. There are also two large public car parks in close proximity to the school that offer two hours free parking. These are located next to the Ramada and next to the Red Barn (Remarkable Markets).

Parking Enforcement will occur during normal school hours. During school hours, all visitors (which includes parents) should ensure they are only parking in the Visitor area at the front of the school or in one of the adjacent public car parks.

Greenstone Camp

Greenstone Camp kicked off this week for Year 9's, with Group 4 heading into camp today! Despite some wet weather last night, students have had an incredible time sleeping in tents, participating in a day tramp and taking part in practical activities to enhance their learning in PE lessons. The camp places a special emphasis on the Be Riversafe programme, involving river crossing, river and survival swimming, kayaking, and understanding risks and their management. Well done to all of our students who took part!

Climbing Festival

Last weekend was the Queenstown Climbing Festival, a three day event organised by the local climbing club where nearly 60 participants enjoyed anything to do with rock climbing.

After having watched an inspirational movie (Hold Fast with Conrad Anker) on Friday evening at the school theatre, climbers gathered on Saturday to partake in a fun climbing marathon where they climbed as many routes as possible within five hours on the Wye Creek rock. On Sunday a speed climbing competition meant participants were tested on the agility and speed on the Events Centre wall.

Students from Wakatipu High School and Mount Aspiring College were among the keen participants and made the most of each day. Congrats to each student and to Lucy Sinclair, Azaria Briscoe, Hylton Briscoe, James Glover, Jack McBeth, Zandrie Elliott for their perseverance and enthusiasm through this event.

On a similar note the school climbing group 'Wakatipu Climbing Team' is growing bigger and bigger which is great news, if you or your son/daughter wish to join please contact Mr Guillaume Charton. Kia kaha,

Guillaume Charton, Head of Languages Learning Area

Geography Field Trips

Year 11
The Year 11 Geography students have been out for two days, exploring the fluvial features and canyon along the 12 Mile River.

The aim of the students' research is to assess the viability of establishing a commercial canyoning company along the 12 Mile River. This required students to access different locations along the river and measure it's width, depth and speed at these locations. Students were also required to run surveys in town in an attempt to understand the needs of the marketplace.

Thanks to Queenstown Canyoning's ongoing support, students were also offered the ability to actually canyoning in the river. This helped students develop an appreciation for how different fluvial features could be incorporated into a commercial experience. Geography in action!

Year 12
The Year 12 Geography students ventured out of school this week to explore the sustainability challenges currently being addressed in the Rastus Burn Recreational Area.

The aim of the student's research is to assess the sustainability of NZSKI's commercial operations in the Rastus Burn Recreational Reserve. This required students to interview MIchel LePage, Operations Manager from NZSKI and Dawn Palmer, Ecologist and independent monitor for the area. Students ran vegetation transects in three different locations in the reserve to assess the effectiveness of a range of different revegetation methods employed by NZSKI.

A massive thanks to Dawn Palmer and NZSKI for their ongoing support, and making this field trip possible. Geography in action!

Head Students' Address

Hey everyone,

Time has flown past and it's already the first week into March. It's crunch time for the seniors with various deadlines creeping through and the pressure is beginning to make an entrance. Both this week and next week is packed with all sorts of opportunities to get involved both with the school and the wider community, ranging from 'International Women's Day' to the 'Relay for Life', so keep an eye out for them.

Some of you may know about the Global School Strike 4 Climate that is happening on Friday next week. For those of you who may not know what it is, it's a day in which students are striking from school to tell our politicians to treat climate change for what it is - a crisis. This all started in Sweden through one student, Greta Thunberg, who took days off school to sit outside the Swedish parliament which sparked an international youth movement. This has since exploded across the globe to Europe, Australia and now New Zealand. So how do you get involved? On 15 March, a march in the town centre of Queenstown organised by school kids will start from 2:45 and it's a chance for Queenstown students to raise their concerns.

If you care about our future and want more details to get involved, contact 16ilttle@wakatipu.school.nz, or click here for more information.

We also have our first ever Relay for Life in Queenstown next weekend all in support of the Cancer Society of New Zealand. It's an event where we get a chance to celebrate cancer survivors and carers; remember loved ones lost to cancer and fight back by raising awareness and the funds that are raised will be going towards supporting the work of Cancer Society. If you would like to get involved, either register or pop by at the Lake Hayes pavilion either Saturday or Sunday.

A gumboot mufti day will also be held in early April in support of the 2019 New Zealander of the Year, Mike King. The funds that are raised from this gumboot day will increase awareness and funds for the I AM HOPE organisation which will help provide free counselling services for Kiwi kids

Our school councils have had their fourth meeting this week and are beginning to wrap up their planning for this year. International Women's Day was on Friday which celebrates and recognises women all over the world. In light of this, the Whanaungatanga Council have organized a collection of clothing, bedding, household items and children's book which was all donated to the Women's Refuge Centre.

The Academic Council are looking to get speakers from around the community to come and talk about their careers and advice going into future education or the workforce. If you have any special requests or you may know someone who would be willing to share their experiences, email 15archieritchie@wakatipu.school.nz.

That's the latest from WHS, have a wonderful weekend.

Thomas Hartono, Deputy Head Boy

Luma

Luma continues to be on the minds of all of the Year 9 Hard materials students this term. We are focusing on exploring materials, building mock ups and creating prototypes. Students will be building their final design next week!

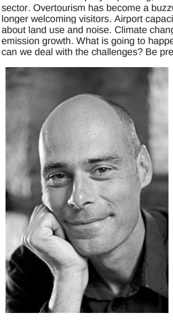
Social and climate change – the emerging conflicts in sustainable tourism

Global tourism is rapidly expanding, and so are the problems associated with the sector. Overtourism has become a buzzword in overrun tourist resorts, with locals no longer welcoming visitors. Airport capacity is expanding worldwide, creating conflicts about land use and noise. Climate change mitigation needs are in strong contrast to emission growth. What is going to happen in the global tourism system - and how can we deal with the challenges? Be prepared to be confronted…



Prof Stefan Gössling is an international expert in the interrelationships between tourism, culture, transport, and sustainability and is in Queenstown for University of Otago's inaugural Tourism Policy School.

His areas of expertise include aviation's contribution to climate change, public and active transport, climate policy, digitalisation of tourism and transport, urban planning and consumer cultures.

He has worked in the EU, Middle East, Africa and the Caribbean as well as consulting for groups from the OECD and UNEP to the World Bank. A professor at Sweden's Lund University, he is currently an Erskine Fellow at the University of Canterbury.

Please note - Prof Gössling's talk will replace the scheduled "DOC's Dilemma" event, which has had to be postponed.

Friday, March 8, 6-7.30 PM, The Rees Hotel Queenstown conference room, $5 koha at door. Registration is required as seating will be limited, with tickets available through Catalyst Trust's Eventbrite page. Please bring your tickets (printed, emailed or Eventbrite app).
